

Hi Folks!

Happy New Year!

My sincere hope is that each and every one of you is blessed with a New Year filled with Love, Prosperity, Joy, and Dance!

If you are interested in scheduling Private lessons, small private groups, or just want to look into my upcoming availability and class schedule, you can now find my calendar on my website www.floorplay.net

Hopefully this will make keeping up with each other even easier!

New policy regarding cancellations:

I understand that life is chaotic and unpredictable (Believe Me!), and that occasionally things come up that unavoidably alter a schedule. With at least 24 hours notice of a cancellation I have the opportunity to schedule your cancelled hour with another student. Due to several last minute cancellations or no-shows last year, in 2012 cancellations not made with at least 24 hours notice will be charged 1/2 price for the hour. No-Show appointments will be charged at my full hourly rate. Cancellations made 24 hours or more in advance will be happily rescheduled no fee.

Also, I am happy to announce that I now accept payments through PayPal! For those of you who have been interested in paying by credit card for private lessons, group class series registrations, workshops, and private lesson packages Now You Can! This will hopefully make your dance experiences with me even more convenient by providing more flexible payment methods :)

PLEASE NOTE- ICE/SNOW ALERTS!

Due to the unpredictable and potentially severe and unsafe driving conditions throughout the winter months

PLEASE check my online calendar at www.floorplay.net on the day of your lessons, group class, or workshops to see if there is any cancellations or reschedules.

I will update my website calendar immediately if I will be unable to travel safely on any given day.
